
Content self-attention: relationships among target characters.

Spatial cross-attention: image locations select reference-style evidence. They are different operations, not two copies.